BANQUET MARKED SESSION'S CLOSE

WISCONSIN CONVENTION OF THE ANCIENT ORDER OF HIBERNIANS COMPLETES WORK.

AN IMPORTANT RESOLUTION

Were Passed at the Business Session—Officers Elected—Enjoyed Their Visit.

With the banquet tendered the delegates to the state convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the invited guests, the gathering which has been in session for two days past, closed last evening at Assembly hall. The actual work of the conference was finished in the afternoon and the evening was devoted to the pleasures provided by the local members of the order.

Covers had been laid for five hundred, a most clever color scheme in the decorations, fine music by the Knoff and altich orchestra, good speeches and a delicious repast marked the closing features of the state gathering of members of the order which is national in its scope.

The dinner was served by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary assisted by a number of young ladies, whose parents are members of the A. O. H. or the auxiliary. During the evening of the feast Knoff and altich orchestra played Irish music, the decorations of white chrysanthemums, and for the hall, red white and blue and green streamers with Irish banners and the American flag intertwined the emblem of the order near the musicians' stand all made a pretty sight. With potted plants to enclose the platform where the orchestra was seated.

J. H. Burns, as toastmaster of the evening, made a short address of welcome to the guests in behalf of the local division of the A. O. H. The program followed was enlivened with wit and humor, and the Irish race and the Ancient Order of Hibernians were extolled by all of the speakers. On account of the lateness of the hour one or two numbers were omitted.

Mayor Carle was the first speaker, paying tribute to the descendants of the Emerald Isle and to the order which he stated he believed should be a strong factor in the betterment of those who were numbered among its active members. He was followed by Dean E. E. Kelly of this city, who congratulated the Hibernians on the work accomplished in their convention here, the splendid spirit shown, and stated that he believed it would be fruitful of great results. He emphasized the purpose of the order which is toward a better education in the history of the race, presenting the true facts, instead of the distorted views of many historians. He spoke of the order as a movement toward better citizenship and said that the people appreciated the holding of the convention in the city and had tried to all in their power to make the visit of the delegates an agreeable one.

A quartet comprising Mrs. Valentine Weber, Mrs. Casan, J. H. Burns and Frank Domo, accompanied by Miss Agnes Weber on the piano, gave a pleasing rendition of "Good-bye Maytime."

The Ladies' Auxiliary, as toastmaster of the evening, was assigned in part the duty of speaking on the subject assigned to President Hogan, outlined the early history of the order from its founding in Ireland through its introduction into America and its later growth and development and the need of a better knowledge of Irish history which the order is trying to give. He commended the Irish-American millionaires for their lack of patriotism to their home country after they have achieved wealth here, in not donating funds for the good of the cause and spoke in favor of the endowment of scholarships, similar to those of Cecil Rhodes to encourage a spirit of patriotism among the English, in the University in Dublin.

Mrs. G. W. Squires was given hearty applause for her solo, "Macnamara." Mrs. Squires took the place of Miss McGlinch who was unable to appear. She was accompanied by Miss Agnes Weber.

The playing of Irish airs on the Irish bagpipes by Thomas McGlinch of Chicago, was an interjection in the program that delighted all. "The Irish Race" and the part that it has played in the history of our own country was told in an eloquent address by Hon. James L. O'Connor of Milwaukee, ex-attorney general of the state of Wisconsin. "Wherever and whenever the battle flag of liberty has been unfurled, the Irish have followed it to victory or an honored soldier's grave," the speaker said. "Neither poverty nor toil can make an anarchist or criminal" of the Irishman.

A splendid reading was given by Miss Florence Weber and Prof. M. G. Rohan of Marquette University, Milwaukee, whose topic was Irish history, after a brief introduction shortened the length of his speech, explaining the points he desired to bring out by reading an extract from the report made by him on the subject at the national convention of the order. The speech of Judge Matthew Hayes Carpenter of Milwaukee, who was to have talked on the "Moral Courage of the Irish" was deferred because of the lateness of the hour. The floor was cleared and young and old enjoyed themselves in dancing, Knoff & altich orchestra furnishing the music. Features of this part of the entertainment were the Irish jig by Patrick Rahn to bagpipe music played by Thomas McGlinch and the singing of two old Irish songs by Mr. Archibald of Milwaukee.

Officers Elected.
At the sessions of the convention yesterday afternoon, nearly all of the officers of the Ancient Order of Hibernians were re-elected and the complete list of officials who have served the state auxiliary for the past two years were again chosen. State President Callan received the endorsement of the order for his services of the past two years; Matthew Hayes Carpenter was chosen state vice-president; State Secretary John P. Hoffman of this city was again selected and State Treasurer L. F. Matthews of Ashland succeeded himself. Dean Kelly of this city was appointed state chaplain to succeed Rev. E. J. Blackwell of Milwaukee. The officers of the Ladies Auxiliary are: Mrs. W. T. O'Brien, Ashland, state president; Mrs. Mary Cronin, Janesville, state vice-president; Miss Ellen Fahy, Racine, state treasurer; and Miss Mary E. Kennedy, Milwaukee, state secretary. Milwaukee was selected as the meeting place for the next convention in 1912.

Resolutions presented by Chairman James L. O'Connor of the committee on resolutions, as drawn up by Mr. O'Connor and Prof. M. G. Rohan, the members of the committee, were adopted by the order at the meeting yesterday afternoon, recommending that Irish history be taught in the parochial schools and the public schools wherever possible, with a view to instilling into the minds of the descendants of Irish-born parents a feeling of patriotism and to bring attention to the part Ireland has played in the history of the world. The policy of the national convention in Portland commending the teaching of the Gaelic tongue in Ireland was carried out. Considerable debate, however, arose over the resolution endorsing the peace proposition as set forth by former National President Matthew Cummings of Boston at Portland, July 16, along the lines that the four great Irish societies refrain from internecine bickerings relative to the great cause of Irish nationality. The various Irish organizations have been working for practically the same purpose but have had feelings of jealousy toward each other. The resolution was introduced with a view to doing away with this intersociety discord and National President Hogan was advised of the action of Wisconsin Hibernians in passing the resolution, in order that he might not be in accordance with it.

WORLD TAKES CARE OF ITSELF

Real Philosopher Does Not Worry Much Over the Terrible Plight of the Future.

One may ardently advocate the conservation of natural resources without losing rest in worrying about what we shall do for ourselves when all forests are destroyed, or for warmth when coal is exhausted. It is really unwise to get hysterical over such troubles, so long as they are under contract for future delivery. None of us should be deficient in philosophy. The real philosopher is he who, having a sure tip that things are coming his way, smiles upon adversity with indulgence.

It is just as well to consider that by the time cross-streets material quits growing all the Pullmans will be in the air with all the berths upper, and that a thousand years from now, if the scarcity of coal runs the price up to $1,000 a ton, some miserable sinners of the present may have caused to rejoice in the prospect of lower temperatures.

The world is going to take care of itself and the guess that the little earth will be rocking along on schedule time a hundred thousand years hence is just as good as any other. Why, therefore, worry? Why attempt to solve the puzzle of navigating the future of dreary thoughts too big for the sea; leave that to future Hobsons.

If the safe and sane people will just make up their minds to cultivate philosophy, and to practice it, many disturbing factors would be eliminated. There is nothing like determining that it will work out all right; it always does.

WAIT SIX YEARS; WILL WED?

Happy Climax Expected to Romance of Princess Clementine.

London, Aug. 25.—A Brussels dispatch to the Daily Mail reports that after six years' waiting the love story of Princess Clementine of Belgium and Prince Victor Napoleon is about to come to a happy climax, their marriage being now imminent. When King Leopold heard of his daughter's intention to marry the imperialist pretender to the throne of France, he refused his consent. Owing to the king's objection, the two consoled to meet, but remained faithful to each other.

To the Voters of Rock County

I wish to thank you for the interest you are showing in my candidacy for the office of Register of Deeds.

If you are not familiar with my qualifications I will say that I began school teaching and left this work to accept a position in a railway office, where I worked ten years as bookkeeper and agent.

I have held my present position as town clerk for the past ten years, and during the last four years have spent the greater part of each year working as bookkeeper for the Rock County Sugar Co., my firm requiring the balance of my time.

This office experience will, undoubtedly prove a valuable help to me in discharging the duties of Register of Deeds should I be elected to that office.

Let me urge you to attend the Primary Election Tuesday, September 6, 1910, and ask you to call the attention of your friends to the importance of voting on Primary Day.

W. B. DAVIS,

Town Clerk Town of Janesville.

What the Evansville Enterprise says:

Experience and efficiency in office work are strong recommendations for a candidate for the office of Register of Deeds. W. B. Davis, who is a candidate for that office on the Republican ticket, is a clean, honest gentleman and his ten years experience in office work renders him especially fitted for that position. The strong endorsement he received from the voters of the county two years ago makes him the logical candidate, and he should receive the support of the party at the primaries.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Shark's Tooth

THE merry mice came again last night as they had promised, but poor little Willy Wistingmouse had one side of his face bandaged up. "Toothache" explained the Ticklemouse to Davy and Dorfy, "and the Boss Dentist lives away out on a tropical island where no boat can touch and live. But if you trust us, chills, we'll take you along."

And though Dorfy couldn't swim at all, and Davy only a little, they climbed into the aeroplane and started for the Pacific shore.

"Couldn't we go by airship all the way?"

"No, Davy. We aren't rigged for so long a flight tonight. Ah, there's the seashore!" They hid their airship among the rocks and hurried down to the beach. The Ticklemouse strokes their bare arms and muttered something under his breath till no swim seemed too long for the swelling muscles.

Swimming in the soft, warm waters of the southern seas proved so easy, the twins were surprised when they landed on the Boss Dentist's island. "BUSY," said the sign on his door, so they waited outside. At last Willy got uneasy, and climbed up to peek through the window.

"What's in the chair? A Shark! The Boss Dentist is filing his teeth to needlepoints!"

"Sh-sh-h! Don't scare the chills," whispered his uncle, tumbling in his pockets. "What'd I do with those Japanese water-flowers? Oh, here's one. Good! It's a fish blossom, too—just what we need!"

The shark came out before the Mouse had tickled the water-flower to life, the four friends hiding behind the hut till he was safely in the sea. Then Willy went in to have his tooth fixed, while his uncle made the bud grow into a full-sized flying fish. Then he whispered over it till it turned snowy white. With a wild cry he flung it toward the sea. The shark whirled about, saw the fish coming, and snapped at it like a steel trap.

And when Willy came out from the Boss Dentist's, they saw the shark coming slowly back again, this time with a broken tooth!

"How'd you do it?" asked Willy. "I threw him a flying-fish," laughed the Ticklemouse, "one I had first turned to stone. I got to thinking of that long swim back, and was afraid Mr. Shark might cut it too short for comfort!"

"Goodness, Uncle Tick—who do you

Cross-Bred Indian Names.
Minnehaha, laughing water—what prettier name, in sound and in sense, could there be? But the saddest thing about American nomenclature is the way in which languages have been cross-bred, with deplorable results. All those Indian "Minne" names are delightful when left alone; and the white man did well in naming the state of Minnesota after the river, which, being interpreted, is "sky-dut water." But then he must go and contrive "Minneapolis" for its chief town—a shocking mixture of Indian and Greek. What lovely names they must have missed when they imported their Jacksonville to dispossess the old man's language!—London Chronicle.

As they looked upon after, it was a thief running away with the pay-telephone which he had cut from the wall and tripping over a chair in making his exit. ## Why Johnston Did Not Try to Take Washington.

Confederate General's Clear Explanation of His Failure to Enter the National Capital After the Battle of Bull Run.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

In early February of 1863, a few weeks before the close of the term of Gen. Joseph T. Johnston as a member of congress I called upon him at his home near MacPherson Square in Washington, by invitation. In a chance conversation I had with him a day or two earlier, I had mentioned to him that I had heard that some of the members of Jefferson Davis' cabinet had severely criticized him because, after the first battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861, he had not followed up the victory and taken his army into Washington.

"If you will call upon me some afternoon," said General Johnston, "I will talk that matter over with you very cheerfully." So I went to his house at the first opportunity and found him seated before a table on which was spread a map of Washington and that part of northern Virginia of which Manassas Junction and Bull Run are the center.

"It would have been a great triumph if after the first battle of the war, we had been able to capture Washington and to have held it," he said. "The moral effect would have been very great and it would undoubtedly have strongly impressed both France and England."

"But what were the facts? By forced marches I arrived upon the field of Bull Run with my army from the Blue Ridge region of Virginia, where I had been for some time. I had been called upon by General Beauregard, who commanded the army of Northern Virginia, for reinforcements or support. He knew that the federal army, under General McDowell, was preparing to attack the army of Northern Virginia somewhere near Manassas Junction. There was one of the two railroads communicating from Richmond and further south with the northern part of Virginia. So, as speedily as possible, I got my army into motion, and, if you remember anything of the battle of Bull Run, you will recall that I arrived with my troops upon the field while the battle was in progress."

"I do not now recall any other time during my entire service with the Confederate army when my troops were so worn before actually engaging in a battle as they were when they arrived upon the Bull Run battlefield just in the nick of time, with the battle hanging in the balance. Nevertheless, my fatigued troops turned the scales, and there followed the demoralization, utter confusion and headlong flight of McDowell's army towards Washington."

"Now, I see how anyone at a distance, and especially anyone not of military training, could have honestly thought it was the easiest thing possible for me to follow McDowell's army into Washington and capture the city. But after the battle was over what with forced marches and fighting my troops were completely exhausted, and so were Beauregard's. It would have been impracticable to have taken up another forced march in pursuit of the federal army. But suppose I had given the order? Reaching the Long Bridge, I would have found it destroyed. I could not have entered Washington that way, and any attempt to enter it otherwise would have involved an attack upon the very strong fortifications built in its defense. I doubt if any army twice the size of mine could have captured those fortifications."

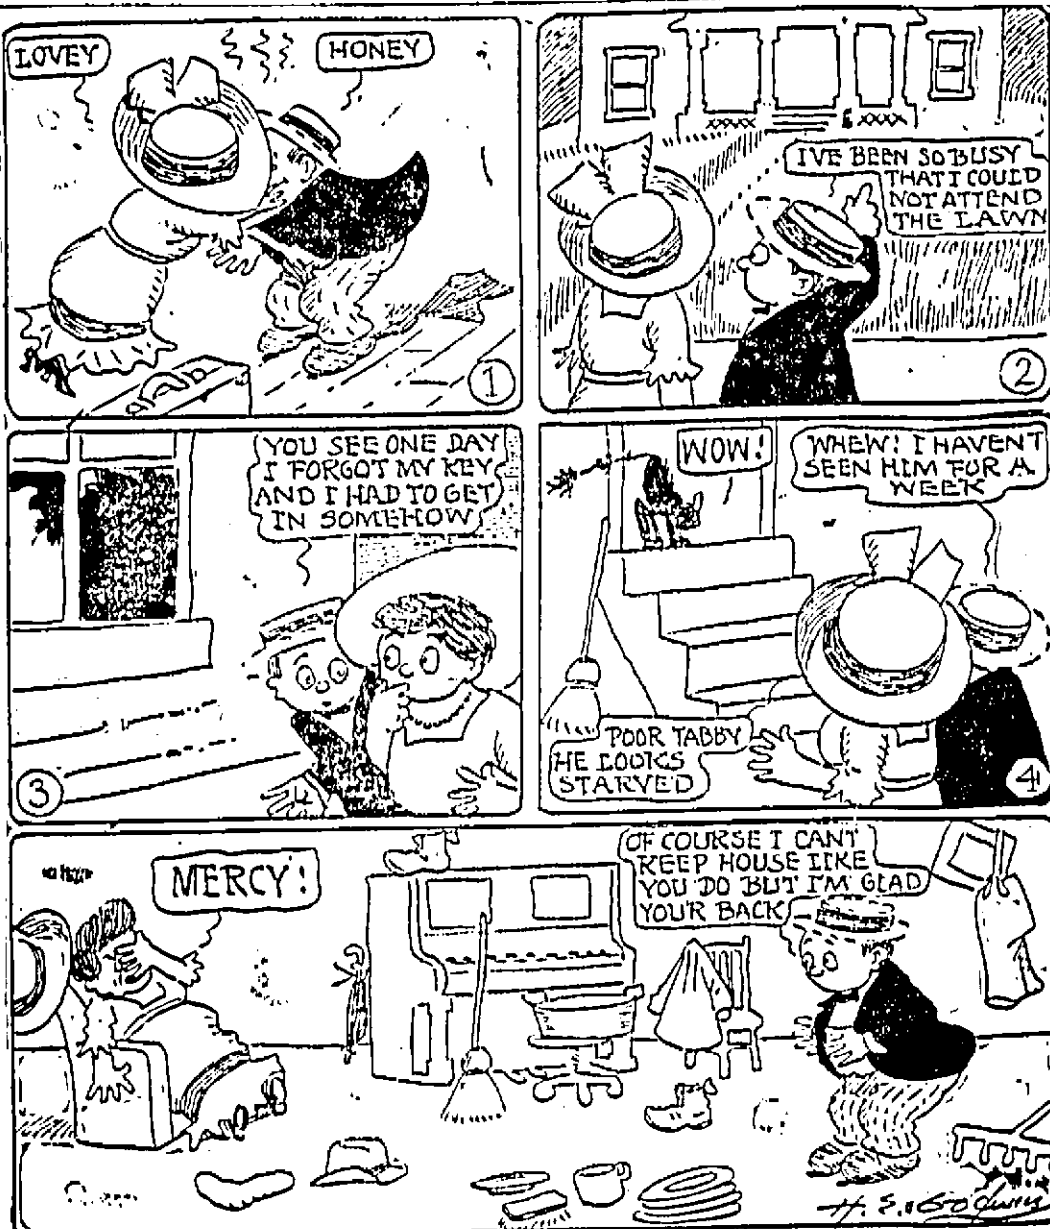

General Johnston smiled. "It, of course, sounds very well when it is said that an army has captured the capital of a nation," he said. "But there is little advantage in capturing a capital unless you can hold it. Sheridan, in the early spring of 1864, actually entered the outer defenses of Richmond, and undoubtedly could have entered Richmond itself. But it would have been impossible for him to have held Richmond at that time, so that he would have gained nothing by entering it. As for myself, I am sure that all the competent commanders upon both sides in the Civil war now surviving are convinced that it would have been unwise, and possibly fatal, for me to have attempted to enter Washington immediately after the first battle of Bull Run."

Sunshine a Panacea.

A physician of some note has just announced another panacea for all the ills humanity is heir to. It consists simply of sunshine. Among the afflictions which is said have been cured by this means are tubercular ulcerations, skin diseases, old cuts and sores and obesity. "An abdomen tripartite with adipose tissue will melt like snow under the caress of the sun," it is declared. "To take a sun bath," the doctor explains, "it suffices simply to stretch one's self completely unclothed in the direct rays of the sun, taking care always to protect the head, and above all the back of the neck. There must be no intermediary between the skin and the sunlight, for the chemical power of the solar rays is completely nullified by the clothing and by glass. The inclination of the rays is also important; when they fall perpendicularly their action is much greater; oblique rays glance, on the contrary, from the surface of the skin and are without effect."

AUGUST CONTEST

ELDREDGE

This Machine Equal to Any $50 Machine for $25

This refers to the working parts. The stand and cabinet are made of golden oak, piano finish; drop head, automatic lift, is handsome and serviceable and very well made.

THE NEW IMPROVED ELDREDGE HEAD is a large size, high-arm, of the very highest order in every respect, and its design embraces every latest improvement and desirable feature ever incorporated in any machine, together with a number of special improvements never before used and which cannot today be obtained with any other machine. It stands today the acknowledged leader of the disc tension heads, not only unequalled but altogether unapproached. It is the most perfect type of sewing machine head ever produced.

STYLE OF MECHANISM—The head is of the style of mechanism known as the disc tension, positive take-up, vibrating shuttle, eccentric action type. There is no better guarantee that this is the most improved and reliable mechanism than the fact that the Singer, White and Improved Eldredge machines are equipped with heads of this type.

SIZE OF HEAD is high, strong and substantial, with large space under the arm for sewing bulky goods, such as cloaks, dresses, etc., allowing the bulkiest work to be stitched and handled with ease.

THE STITCH is a double thread lock stitch, the same on both sides, will not ravel, and can be made long or short by simply moving a thumb-screw. The stitch can be changed without stopping the machine, a feature not possessed by other sewing machines.

THE TENSION is of the latest disc type, situated conveniently on the front edge of the face of the arm; it is of the utmost delicacy and wide range of adjustment, and is so simple that it operates with the thread merely drawn once through it.

THE TAKE-UP is absolutely positive and automatic in its action; it is operated directly and will control any size or kind of thread in a perfect manner in any class of sewing, and will thus produce an absolutely correct stitch. There is also an auxiliary take-up near the tension discs whose function it is to control the thread under certain special conditions, in a more accurate manner than is possible when this auxiliary take-up is omitted. This take-up is used in the Singer, White and Improved Eldredge machines, and will not wear out or lose its strength as in the case of the spring take-up.

SELF-THREADING VIBRATING SHUTTLE—A perfect cylinder steel shuttle, made of the finest quality tool steel, hardened and ground. It is absolutely self-threading; open at one end to allow the bobbin to be inserted without displacing any of the parts; runs loose in the shell, thus insuring an even and perfect tension; entirely self-threading, easy to put in and take out; holds a bobbin that carries a large amount of thread.

We guarantee the Eldredge Sewing Machine for 10 years and give a CERTIFICATE of guarantee with every machine sold. Full set of the best attachments included.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

THREE, mother? Mother, dear. But why, mother—with only four of us and this small house and all the washing and ironing to put out, and a woman to do the cleaning—there surely can't be such a great deal to do.

"I seem to keep pretty busy." "Now, mother, do you know what I think? I think you putter. I've been watching you and it seems to me that you do lots of little things you don't really need to. Now, for the next few days I wish you'd just try to let those little things go. Just do the regular routine of the house, cleaning them away, and such as getting the meals, and let the rest go. Every time you start to do any one of those things that don't really need to, just stop and make up your mind to let it slide. I'm sure you wouldn't get half so tired if you'd do that sometimes."

The little mother listened to her daughter's harangue at first indignantly, then quizzed.

"Then an idea seemed to come to her. 'Would you really like to have me try it, Marjorie?'"

"Of course, will you?" "I think I will," said the little mother slowly.

"Good, I'm sure that means that when I come home from work I'll find you much less tired. I'm sure you could be just as well as not if you didn't putter so."

The new order began the next day. The first recognition of its presence was by Marjorie that night.

"Mother, what does all this? He keeps coming in here and teasing for something."

"Perhaps he wants his supper, Marjorie. I thought that was outside of the regular routine that you outlined, so I didn't do it."

"Oh," from Marjorie, as she followed Duke out into the kitchen and picked up his pan.

"Perhaps you'd better tend to the bird, too," called the little mother. "Of course, I didn't touch him and his cage is awfully dirty."

The next morning Marjorie awoke and came hurrying down to breakfast. "How much time have I got?" she demanded. "Why, what's the matter with that clock? It's stopped, mother."

"Yes," agreed the little mother serenely. "I didn't wind it, you know. I was afraid that was puttering."

"Mother," this was from Marjorie the following morning. "I can't find my clean clothes. What did you say? You didn't think you ought to put away the clothes? Oh!"

"Mother," this was from Marjorie next day. "There hasn't been any soap in this bathroom for three days. What's the matter?"

"I can't find my clean collars, mother," this was from big brother. "You didn't send the laundry? Why not?"

"Mother," this was from Marjorie again. "What do you think has happened? The buttons weren't taken out of my white skirt and the washer-woman did it up with them in, and they're ruined and most ruined the skirt. Putting it? Oh, mother, that isn't fair. No, I'll take it all back if you'll just help me get the iron rust out of this skirt so it'll be fit to wear canoeing tomorrow."

And then little mother, being one of that wonderful slitherhood of almost superhuman longevities that good mothers belong to, suppressed a desire to tell her daughter that getting the rust out of a white skirt was out of the prescribed routine, and patiently worked away at the stains until she had gotten them out and then pressed the skirt neatly.

That was the end of the experiment. And Marjorie didn't use the word "puttering" now.

I wonder if there is any suggestion in that little tale for any other Marjorie who can't see what her mother finds to keep her so busy all day.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By Rose Terrill.

Lamb is one of the most desirable of all meats at this season. The old third nation and lamb has nothing in common with the properly butchered and cared for sheep and lamb of today. I know elderly persons who abhor all of the sheep rice because they were accustomed to the badly butchered sheep of the old farming days, when every man was his own butcher and most of them neither sanitary nor scientific. A lamb would be cooked and properly served would be a revelation to those unimpressive people could one induce them to eat it.

For a roast of about four pounds make a thick dough out of one and a half cups of flour, one teaspoonful of salt and water enough to make it roll out. Spread in a thin sheet over the roast, which should be seared in a hot skillet and sprinkled with salt. Pour water into the pan and set in a moderate oven. Beyond looking at it to regulate the heat it will require no further attention as the blanket of dough does away with all need of basting. When done, which will be in about one and a half hours, peel off the thick brown crust, and set the roast under the broiler fire, to brown if not brown enough, and send to the table very hot. Serve mint sauce or mint jelly with it.

To make mint sauce, chop a dozen sprays of spear mint fine, have ready a cupful of vinegar, a tablespoonful of sugar, which has been boiled, turn over the minced mint and let it steep, add a pinch of salt and serve in a sauce boat or pitcher to keep hot.

Mint jelly should be made very soon when green grapes may be procured. Wash the grapes and set over the fire with water in the proportion of a pint of water to a quart of grapes, cook 15 minutes, mashing the grapes with a wooden or silver spoon. Drain through a jelly bag and replace over the fire, add a sprig of mint to each pint of juice or, if mint is not procurable, the essence may be used according to the judgment, boil 20 minutes and strain through a hair sieve, add a cup of sugar to each cup of juice. The sugar should be heated and should only be allowed to boil up once when it may be turned into glasses. If it is not the right shade of green to please the eye, color with vegetable coloring. This is not only dainty with lamb, but cold, but it is a very pretty garnish for cold sliced meat of many kinds and for mint frappe.

With the advent of the mellow season comes many methods of using the melons. Select very fresh, the water-melons, select one of the pulp, carefully removing the seeds. A dish of any white wine improves the flavor and, if the melon is not very sweet, add a little sugar. If the wine is not at hand and there are lemons, use a cupful of very sweet, very sour lemonade. Pack the pulp in a mould or in a freezer and pack in ice. It need not be stirred, but should be in the ice and salt for at least four hours.

Phenolphthalein and other fresh fruits may be frozen in the same way by adding a little of water and the well beaten whites of eggs.

MEMORY SHELF.

[By MARY RUSSELL.]

What do you select to place on your memory shelf? It is full of beautiful thoughts and stored delights? Or do you carefully preserve the unhappy moments, and aches, and pains, when you sit and think of your life?

"Did you have a lovely day?"

"Was asked of a child who had spent the day in the country."

"Well," the small woman responded, "I fell down and skinned my leg and when I was climbing a fence I tore my dress, and there was not enough cake in the lunch bucket, either."

"And you saw?"

"No, one of the girls fell in the brook and got all wet, and we all had to find her some of our things and she was just awful cold. We had to wait a long time for the car, and the mosquitoes bit me, and some of us had to stand up all the way till we got most home anyway, and we felt awful tired."

Another child who went on the same picnic was asked the same question, and the little face beamed with delight as she recounted all the joys of the flowers and fields and the brook and the glories; "and we didn't get home till after dark and all the little lights looked like fireflies and the conductor let us stand on the front platform and look out through the window, and it was like flying."

So troubles there, and yet on investigation I found that several small mischances had befallen her. She forgot everything that was disagreeable and remembered only the happy hours.

Like the sundial which has for its legend:

"I only mark the hours that shine."

She was a little living reminder of the joys of life.

A mother instructing her children the other day said:

"Pretend that your memory is a little row of shelves like a bookcase, and that your memories are books. Some books you never open. They are not pleasant. Some you read again and again. Some you read aloud, and some are too precious to let anyone handle. So when you have any happy, bright-colored ones, may be between dull and sad-colored ones, and are all the brighter for the contrast. Some of the dearest are in pale and dainty colors and must be remembered with tenderness. Keep the ugly ones closed and forget that they are there if they do you no good. Remember when you make room for new and pleasant ones to shove the old and ugly ones which are only fit for the trash heap in the lower drawer, or out of sight or throw them into the fire."

For useless lumber and is only fit for ugly memories that are of no value. I have played that play ever since I was a little girl and you will find it is a pleasant and profitable game."

Some of the other children might "play pretend" at the game with profit. We all know the people who love to be remembered. They find more pleasure in recounting their aches and pains—the troubles they have had and the trouble they expect to have until it seems that all joy has been blotted out of the universe.

Don't get into the habit of telling your troubles. It is almost indecent the way some people trot out their symptoms and relate all the details of their disease and sorrows. There are but few who will really listen with interest—and their patience sometimes wears the ranks of the sorrowful ones of earth, but cheer up—it's a good world after all.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

LONGEVITY.

Switzerland has not a single centenarian; Bulgaria has one for every thousand of her inhabitants. England has only 146, while Norway, with a population of only a little more than two millions, has 23. Servia has 573 and Spain, with a population of 18,000,000, has 410. Prof. Metchnikoff attributed the greater longevity of the Bulgarians to their large use of buttermilk, which contains a germ that destroys disease-producing germs in the intestine. The Spaniards do not use buttermilk to any considerable extent, not as much as the English, whose longevity is much lower. While buttermilk tends to overcome the effects of auto-intoxication, the fundamental factor in longevity is simplicity of diet and temperance. The climate and other conditions in Switzerland are superior, and the people are industrious and moral, but they are more addicted to food fabrication and food mixing than any other people, and they have the highest cancer rate in the world, while Servia and Bulgaria have the lowest in Europe. In all the noted individual cases of longevity there has been a close approximation to the monodiet.

IRONING MACHINE

Roller Does the Work Effectively and With Great Rapidity.

The ironing machine shown in the illustration was designed by an Illinois man, and it will probably find great popularity not only in laundries but in large families, where the week's ironing is a big item. The machine works on the principle of a wringer, the goods being inserted between a roller and a table and pressed out neatly and quickly with a few turns of the roller. Gasoline or wood alcohol will supply the heat and motive power is furnished by means of a belt, operated by a treadle, as in a sewing machine.

SENT BY FATHER, SON DIES.
Kansas City Captain Helpless as Boy, Obeying His Order, Perishes.
Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 25.—While William Mayer, a fireman, slowly suffocated in the burning building of the J. W. Jenkins' home, his father, John Mayer, stood on the floor below the dying boy, gazing at the son's danger, but unable to go to his assistance.
The fire started on the top floor of the building. Captain Mayer ordered several of his men to go to the roof of the flames and clear away as much merchandise as possible before the fire reached it.
William Mayer was one of the first to obey his father's command.
The flames soon came dangerously near the men. All but the captain's son left the floor.
Creeping to the elevator shaft the imprisoned fireman frantically rang the electric bell. His father heard it, but there was no way to reach the boy.
"Willie's doomed," he said.
When the fire was out the blackened body of the fireman was found near the shaft of the elevator that did not work.

VISITS IN WEST; TELLS OF TRIP
COLORADO SPRINGS, GARDEN SPOT OF THE WORLD FOR WONDERFUL SIGHTS.
DENVER BEAUTIFUL CITY

Rock County Boy's Impressions of the West as Viewed by Tourists' Eyes.

Colo., Springs, Aug.—If anyone doubts that this country is large, let him take a through train from Chicago and ride even as far as Denver and he will believe. We left Chicago at 10:32 Monday evening, crossed the Mississippi at Rock Island at 3:30, rolled through green, well watered Iowa, crossed the now shallow Missouri at Council Bluffs, went through dry, southern Nebraska, into green northern Kansas, where night cut off our view until we got to Leavenworth, 80 miles from Denver. From thence we passed through barren and dreary rolling country until the train pulled into the Union depot at Denver three minutes late. Denver is a city of somewhat over 200,000 people, the capital and largest city of Colorado. One of the lower steps of the capital is just one mile above sea level and none of Denver is very much lower. It is the metropolis of a vast mining region. It is high and clean and beautiful. Its streets are well paved and cleaned. Its street car service is excellent. Its business blocks are always neat and clean and often large and artistic. Its hotels are numerous and imposing for tourists through into this place, and its people are prosperous looking and proud of their city. Denver is strikingly clean compared to the down town district of Chicago. I asked a Denverite if the cleanliness of the city was not due to a large extent to the climate and the absence of many factories. He said that it was due to the spirit of the western people, and that that spirit was in evidence from the west bank of the Mississippi down to the coast.

Denver is a city of stone and brick. No frame buildings are allowed to be built now. In my extensive street car rides through Denver I saw only five or six frame buildings. The first point of interest that I visited was the Denver Court House. This is an old building but its exterior has recently been cleaned by means of a sand blast which cuts off the dirt. This is a fine example of "western spirit," I presume. It now stands a comparatively large structure of fresh creamy stone, the dome of which is surmounted by a gilded figure of justice holding the traditional scales. It is surrounded by a small, well kept lawn and in front of it, flanking a walk, stand two artistic fountains. Inside I looked into the court of Judge Lindsay, the famous justice of the peace of Denver. The judge, however, was absent from Denver. There is another judge in Denver who is also famous at least in Denver. A gentleman at the court house led me into Justice C. J. Gavin's court room. He is a Irishman of rare wit which he uses extensively, much to the delight of newspaper men of Denver. Yet, within, he is kind to criminals where kindness is merited and he is quite fatherly to young offenders. Mark Twain could have done justice to the events in that court room, but I have not the ability, nor at present, the time to do so. But when you visit Denver, visit the court room of C. J. Gavin and laugh.

The capitol of Colorado is a large gray, granite edifice, situated on the top of a small, well strip of land and overlooking the city of Denver. Its park in front slopes down from it in rounded terraces and seldom have I seen such fresh, velvety greenness. The view of the capitol is not obstructed by "large trees, but clusters of shrubbery are nestled in the corners of the park, allowing the capitol building to stand aloof and aloft as the grand central figure of the picture. The building, though grand and imposing is not so beautiful nor so large as the new Wisconsin state house will be, but it stands forth with a bold dignity that adds the attraction. From the gilded dome of the state house one can look down upon the city of Denver. It is a thoroughly beautiful sight. The red and white brick and stone buildings of Denver rise up on all sides. The roofs of the residential section are painted and they form a pleasing picture among the green trees and, I am told, when the air is clear one can see Pike's Peak in the distance.

When the United States mint at Denver. It is a solid, artistic building of granite and of a rectangular shape. Inside in the waiting room are walls and pillars of marble. The mint is clean and bright.

was built at a cost of $1,500,000. When I arrived visitors were thronging there, and when a sufficient number had come the guides took us through the building and showed us the real "money making" industry. That morning they were making ten dollar gold pieces. We saw the entire process—the melting and mixing with an alloy of copper, the molding into bars, the pressing of the gold pieces, and so on to the stamping machine from which a steady stream of gold coins was pouring into a box that holds thousands and thousands of dollars. And those boxes were numerous, and the mint was not running full blast, and this is only one of the U. S. mints. Draw your own conclusions. I gazed at those boxes, full of a lustrous thin black metal, constantly growing shinier, in my rich hip pocket, swallowed hard once or twice and passed out of the building.

In talking of Denver we must speak of the great auditorium where William J. Bryan was nominated for the presidency. Mammoth, said, imposing are the adjectives to be applied to it. Its broad front is studded with electric bulbs that can blaze forth a splendor at night. Its ceiling is supplied with huge clusters of electric lights. Part of the building is now used for a beautiful, roomy theatre seating 450 people. But when occasion demands the walls of this theatre can be swung back on hinges to the walls proper of the auditorium, the stage can be drawn up over the hole, and behold, we have a new stage on the side before which stretches a vast room which, with its galleries, seats 12,000 people, and into which, I am told, when all available space was used, 18,000 people have been crowded.

But space forbids me to go further into detail. There are many other important buildings, the city library, the great sunarium, the state museum, the new electric and gas building, whose tall bulb studded sides will help to make the Denver night brilliant, etc., etc.

Denver has many beautiful parks, among them Luna Park, or the White City, which attracts many pleasure seekers. Short trips can be taken to the foot hills and the far famed Cripple Creek region. The thinness of the air at this altitude affects some "easterners"—note the term—but did not affect me in the least. In the sunshine it is often very hot but in the shade it is cool, and the nights are always cool owing to the altitude. I did not encounter any "sand winds" which I was told often sweep through Denver. A Denverite admitted that they had sand winds sometimes, but denied that they were frequent. Fanning around here is not successful unless the land is irrigated. Water comes much to my delight, are very cheap. On the whole Denver is well worth visiting, and you will be courteously received.

ABOUT NEWS ITEMS MAILED.
The Gazette is pleased to receive news items by mail, but those who send them often neglect to affix a two-cent stamp. One-cent stamps will not suffice to carry the letter through the mail, resulting in an additional payment before the letter can be delivered.

Matches Not By-Products.
It is not to be assumed that, by reason of the smallness of matches, the makers thereof ever utilize scraps or bits of wood left over. The contrary is the case. Matches are not by-products. Any wood rejected by the match machine goes to the by-product establishment, and of these by-products of the match business may be mentioned some, such as doors and sashes, that in some instances form an industry as important as the match industry itself.

Under the new law which requires the members of any given political party to cast at least twenty per cent of the normal election vote at the forthcoming primaries in order to entitle that party's candidates to a place on the ballot, Rock county democrats who cast 2,120 for governor in 1908 will have to vote to stay under their own colors and cast 38 votes a week from Tuesday. Otherwise the county ticket will not appear upon the ballot in November. Janesville democrats cast 925 votes for governor in 1908 and Deloit's total was 512. Reason Enough
Cleaning Mother of Pearl.
Mother of pearl never should be washed with soap, for it discolors and destroys the brilliancy of the shell. The right method of cleaning is with whitening and cold water.

A Mother's Love
warily directed, will cause her to give to her little ones only the most wholesome and beneficial remedies and only when actually needed, and the well-informed mother uses only the pleasant and gentle laxative remedy—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—when a laxative is required, as it is wholly free from all objectionable substances. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.

The Power Question
Did you ever figure out how much power is required to keep your line shafting and belts running? In many plants, more power is required for this purpose than to do the actual work.
Does yours belong to this class?
Why not let one of our engineers look the plant over and make a report? It won't cost you anything.
We want you to use the kind of power that eliminates line shafting and belts entirely—Electric power through individual motor drive—but if it won't save you money, we'll tell you so.
JANESVILLE ELECTRIC CO.

S. A. COOK FOR SENATOR
Reasons Why his Candidacy Should Appeal to Wisconsin Voters.
The result of the September primary means much to Wisconsin. It will determine whether we shall send to the United States senate one who will vote for constructive legislation, or one who, by his antagonism to Republican doctrines, has already impaired and will continue to impair his usefulness in the senate. The problems which now confront the country must be solved, not by orators and theorists, but by practical men who can accomplish results.
Samuel A. Cook, candidate for United States Senator, is essentially practical, one who makes a success of what he undertakes to do. His platform demands progressive things along constructive lines, calls for economy in government expenditures, for business methods in the conduct of our national affairs.
He stands for the progressive policies of Presidents Roosevelt and Taft.
For the adjustment of the tariff through a scientific commission.
For the practical conservation of natural resources.
For the settlement of the national domain by actual homesteaders.
For legislation for the better regulation of trusts.
For the development of our waterways as an effective check on excessive freight rates.
For every measure which will aid agricultural interests.
HIS SERVICES FOR LABOR.
In his business he operates upon a profit sharing basis and as a consequence, labor troubles with him are unknown. At various times he has received splendid testimonials from his workmen, and their loyalty to him in whatever he undertakes has inspired and aided him in attaining success.
As an employer of labor he has always been on good terms with his men and while in congress did much in the interests of labor. When the joint resolution providing for the reorganization of the Northern Pacific Railroad was under consideration in congress, Mr. Cook discovered that if it was passed as drafted, the company would be relieved from the payment of claims of various natures. This meant that numerous laboring men who had worked for the company, as well as those who had been injured through accident, would lose the amounts due them. Against great pressure, Mr. Cook secured an amendment which provided for the payment of these claims and they were paid as a consequence.
FOR FARMING AND DAIRYING.
Being the owner and operator of a dairy farm, a member of the National Dairymen's Association, the Wisconsin Butter and Cheesemakers' Association, he is naturally interested in problems affecting the farming and dairy interests. While in Congress, he secured the passage of the filled cheese law which has meant millions of dollars to the farmers in Wisconsin and throughout the country. This bill provided that "filled" cheese, which was an imitation of the real cheese, cheaply made, but sold in competition with the genuine article to the detriment of the honest manufacturer or dealer, should be branded for just what it was. This legislation was a much needed protection to the farming and dairying interests.
Mr. Cook will promise no more than he can perform.
He will bring to bear in the performance of his duties, a ripe judgment, a thorough, practical training in business affairs, and a broad comprehension of public questions.
Give Samuel A. Cook your vote for Senator at the primary election, September 6th, 1910.

He disappeared from England six months ago because his father ordered him away unless he broke his engagement to marry a poor girl. Through the immigration department the father located the son here and has offered to forgive him and reinstate him if he renounces his fiancée.

This he refuses to do and announces his intention of buying a ranch in western Texas and sending for his fiancée. He had $5,000 when he came to this country, but lost it in speculating in the cotton market.

WHITECAPS FLY A PREACHER.

Mob Whips Hellness Preacher—Order Him to Leave County.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Aug. 25.—The story of the whipping of a preacher by whitecaps and the burning of his church building by them because they did not like the kind of faith he preached, has just been brought to Parkersburg from Grantville, Calhoun county. A mob of about fifty whitecaps dragged Rev. Scott Williams, a Holiness preacher, from his home at Dry Ridge, that county, at one o'clock in the morning and whipped him severely after tying his body to a tree.

Two of his neighbors went to his rescue, but they were recognized by the crowd and given good whippings and told to go back to bed. Then the Holiness tabernacle, in which Doctor Williams has been holding successful meetings, was burned to the ground.

Doctor Williams says that the whitecaps told him that he must leave the county within ten days or that they would get him and kill him. Williams says he will not leave the county and will remain. His wife is ill at the home of neighbors because the whitecappers tied a pillow over her head and almost smothered her to keep her from making any outcry.

Use Ice in Both Seasons.

Ice to keep milk from becoming too warm in summer; ice to warm it in winter. In cold weather scientific dealers use ice just the same. When milk is being transported long distances in a temperature below or around zero it would freeze into a solid mass if it were not kept warm. Stoves won't do. But ice in the refrigerator car, at 32 degrees, keeps the milk from freezing.—New York Press.

"You'll Succeed in Janesville."

How many people are employed in the largest factory in Janesville? Don't know.

Well, down in the south end of the city there is a big building with a sign on it which says: "P. Hohendel Jr. Co., Packers of Vegetables." This factory may not be the largest in Janesville but it is one of the largest for it employs 250 people.

They ship to all parts of the United States and through their locating in Janesville, have made many acres of land that formerly yielded cents, yield dollars.

A Moline, Ill., man takes pride in the fact that they have a few big factories but it is the smaller factories that count and that make a city solid and safe for investors. Janesville should be proud of the fact that she has 35 solid, growing industries that operate week in and week out the year round—we want big factories, of course, but let us all do what we can to make our own factories greater.

Valparaiso is only about 5,000 miles from New York, but it requires from 70 to 80 days to get a reply to a business letter, and to get an order filled and delivered, generally takes from five to six months, when the time is accomplished in one-half the time, as is the case from Europe.

Here's Your Chance For a Farm!

Big Lumbermen Have Turned Over 500,000 Acres in Wisconsin to American Immigration Company For Settlement.

GREAT LAND SALE IS ON!

Quit the up-hill fight as a tenant farmer. Here's a chance for a farm of your own. Go up to Wisconsin! Grow up with Wisconsin! Put your money and muscle and vim into buying, clearing and developing a farm that will make you independent.

The American Immigration Company of Chippewa Falls, Wis., has come into possession of a total of over half a million acres in the best section of the state. Over 150,000 acres of this rich undeveloped land lies in the Round Lake Country, Sawyer county, alone. A country of abundant rainfall and the purest of water.

This is the best of all the ROUND LAKE WISCONSIN PAID LANDING and settlers and investors are snapping it up at $2.50 to $20 per acre, on ten year time.

This company is making these remarkably low prices and easy terms because its great development plan is centered in Sawyer County.

New towns are being laid out, railroads are coming and great progress is being made by the settlers already there.

Parties interested should, with clay sub-soil, or a clayey loam soil, both particularly adapted for dairy farming, stock raising and the production of big crops of wheat, oats, barley, timothy, clover, alfalfa, sugar beets and all classes of vegetables. Stock raising is very profitable.

Parties interested should write at once for maps, books and full information, to the local representative of the American Immigration Company, L. H. PETERSON, 814 Milwaukee St., Janesville, Wis.

Way of the World.

We live in a maze of kaleidoscopic things. One of the quaint effects is this: How suddenly the man who gets up in the world can forget you, and how suddenly he can remember you when he comes down.

WISCONSIN A PARADISE

Is the remark made by a traveling salesman who had been traveling in the Dakotas for the past ten months, and stopped off in Janesville on his way to Chicago.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES OF CLARK COUNTY:

Healthful climate and pure water.

Best of any loam soil.

Grade ranges on section lines.

Natural drainage on every quarter section.

Plenty of hardwood timber for cordwood, and bolts and saw timber for buildings.

Best grass country in the northwest.

Blackberries, raspberries and strawberries grow wild in great abundances.

One elderly couple put up 140 quarts of berries in 1909, also made over 100 gallons of real maple syrup. They don't go hungry in Clark County.

The large red barns and other good buildings and the good herds of cows are advertising this country. No one out of a job and everybody busy. Automobiles are there and the best roads in the state to ride on. If you will take two or three days' time we will show you this land.

We are offering some of the best Clark County land at $16.00, $17.00 and $18.00 per acre while it lasts. This land is located in a well settled part of the County where cleared up farms are valued at $75.00 to $100.00 per acre. We have land from $11.00 to $35.00 per acre. People from other states are buying these lands every week. We will be pleased to hear from interested parties.
